➤ Information About Saba 3 Tower:

Quality is not a word rather it is an action, it is crucial to our primary objective to have our buildings constructed with the highest quality of workmanship and materials. We strongly believe that quality plays an instrumental role in the real estate industry, as a first-rate quality construction becomes an investment for the future by projecting and spreading a well received reputation for the developer. Moreover, good quality instills in the mind of the client a greater confidence in their investment and ensures a loyal and dependable customer base. The opposite is also true with low quality having a detrimental effect on consumer confidence levels. Excellence is the centrepiece of SABA Properties JLT's objectives in all aspects of our business, and we constantly strive to display excellence in our performance, products and services.

Excellence is an integral part, and the end result of quality, therefore it has a direct effect on our drive for quality. Constructing a tower is the first phase of a long term commitment and commences when the construction is complete, it will last as long as the product life cycle, whilst in actuality it preserves the quality and excellence that has been imbedded into the finished product. Maintenance retains and prolongs the assets value therefore it directly affects investor's equity. Delivery on commitments by business entities is the core of all business transactions, without which objectives are not met and investments are eroded. Quality, excellence and maintenance are intensely effective when and if they actually take place on a timely basis. Commitments are the most detrimental factor in making or breaking a business entity.

Therefore in SABA Properties JLT meeting and delivering on our commitments are the driving forces behind all of our strategies and consequently have the highest priorities in our devising of goals and objectives.
